HORSE CASE INTERESTS WESTERLY

Trader Alleged to Have Swapped Steed Not His Own-BicycleThief Proves to Be Otis Morgan, 16-Dr. Sarah Dunn Fires Two Shots At Escaping Burglars

A recent horse trade in which the the Dotolo horse, or the whole matter horse did not belong to the traders will be cleared if each of these horses be given an alring in the Third district court Aug. 8, the day specified for the return of the writ of replexin served by Deputy Sheriff Frederick T. Mitchell. Several weeks ago Amos Burdick and Nicolo Despesitto traded horses, just as they had done before, but in this latest transaction Nicolo claims that Amos bested him, and he made a vain appeal to the police to have the transaction undone. But it was a horse trade pure and simple, in which the fellow who got bested is supposed to take his medicine. So far as was known there was nothing criminal in the transac-tion and therefore was not within the jurisdiction of the police, and civil action was suggested to Nicolo if he believed he had a legal grievance. While the horse was still in the posession of Amos he was informed by Louis Dotolo that the animal did not belong to Nicolo, but to Dotolo. He informed Amos that the horse had been delivered to Nicolo upon payment of $25, but that he was not to become owner of the horse until the balance of the purchase money, $50, was hand-ed over to Dotolo, when the bill of sale would be given.

Instead of making an effort to come to a settlement with Dotolo, being of Kenyon, and the horse was taken to the Phillips place.

A writ of replevin was issued by Attorney A. T. L. Ledwidge, counsel Attorney A. T. L. Ledwidge, counser for Mr. Dotolo, and was handed to Deputy Sheriff Mitchell for service. The sheriff went to Kenyon Thursday cle, The others stolen and which were reported to the police were owned by reported to the police were owned by wanted to know just where he was at, district court this (Saturday) morn-as he purchased the horse in good faith ing. from Amos Burdick

As the horse was in the possession of Mr. Phillips he becomes defendant in the suit and should there be judgment given against him he will naturally seek redress from Mr. Burdick. It is possible that Mr. Burdick may be asked to explain why he sold the horse after being informed that Mr. Dotolo claimed ownership. It may also come to pass that Mr. Depisetto will set up a claim in a civil suit and claim damages that the Burdick horse that figured in the transaction was not quite all that Burdick represented. Then, of course, there is the other side of the transaction to show that Burdick acted on the level from start to finish, and that all he did was fully within

With the hope of clarifying the situation, Nicolo has placed the horse he received from Amos where Amos can possession, if he so desires, and Phillips expects that Burdick will re-turn the horse he took in trade for the Dotolo horse. This would narrow the case down to one horse, or a money consideration of $50, if Nicolo takes

A fire insurance inspector visited the plant of the Westerly Textile com-pany Friday and tested the fire fighting appliances. The big fire pump was found in readiness for emergency, and at 60 revolutions developed 160 pounds pressure and forced two streams through 150 feet of hose with inch and a half nozzles, far above the roof of the main mill building. The street hydrant in front of the mill showed a pressure of 95 pounds from an eight-inch main. The inspector was satisfied with the test. He congratulated Chief Engineer Cottrell on the excellence of the water system for fire service.

Within as many months four bicycles have been stolen in this vicinity, and since the theft of Edgar Maxson's new automobile from Main street Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown has been actively at work on the case, entisting the co-operation of officers in this section. This persistent effort has been finally crowned with success. Constable Thomas H. Dr. Sarah N. Dunn, of Boston, who spends her summers at the old homestead and were heard by Dr. Dunn. She investigated and discovered two men in he darkness. There was no man in the house at the time to summon for the emergency, but the doctor secured her revolver and proceeded towards the window which had been opened. The would-be burglars saw her coming and ran away. Dr. Dunn fired two shots after them, convincing the pair that they had left the premises none too soon, and that warning had been served that it would be well to give the Dunn homestead a wide berth.
